Commodore's Corner

By John Whitney

As I look back on the year nearly over, I am pleased with the results of our efforts. The boats look terrific with their new sails and professional cleaning. Our treasury is healthy! Our efforts to swell the ranks of mates (and soon skippers) have begun to bear fruit.

As my term as Commodore draws to a close my primary mission is to insure the orderly transition to new leadership. More on this later.

Many thanks to our officers, chairs and volunteers who make all this possible.

Merry Christmas and happy holidays to all of you.

From the Editor

Greg Roosevelt

Vice Commodore

It's December. We're busy! Occasionally we all need a break and a little bit of rest and relaxation. Getting out on the water is one way to temporarily escape from the malls and madness that come with the Holidays. The sailing club has many opportunities this month to do that. Along with regular day sails, check the sailing calendars for the evening harbor lights sails to enjoy the view and decorations that light up and surround our beautiful harbor at this time of year. As to the day sails, winds typically can be mild or strong and the air always crisp. Bring warm clothing and enjoy the differences of winter sailing.

Hopefully, you have signed up for the Holiday event at the Bahia Corinthian Yacht Club as it sold out in the past few days. If you have, I'm sure it will be a wonderful evening of dancing as well as viewing the Newport Harbor Boat Parade as the boats pass by the windows of the dining room.

Whether your busy schedule provides one or more opportunities to take advantage of all the club has to offer you in December or not, my very best wishes to you for a healthy and enjoyable Holiday Season.

OSC Holiday Party and Boat Parade is 12/15/17.
